

Hempland Lane Allotments, York, North Yorkshire

Going Green! Supporting our environmentally friendly ethos and wishing to also promote water conservation - A full access toilet is now in full operation at the Hempland Lane – Heworth Allotment site, with association members each able to have their own key, so they will never be caught short again! There is nothing worse than getting half way through digging a bed, or sowing some seeds and you need to stop and go home for a call of nature! This is now a thing of the past and with its strong metal clad exterior, it is also very secure and hopefully vandal proof!

Gerry Agar, one of our committee members, shows off our new addition to the site. This is a genuine composting toilet whereby composting takes place in the toilet and emptying is typically only required once a year. Due to its style it also promotes water conservation and sewage reduction. Waterless, odourless, composting toilets allow for public toilet facilities under drought circumstances or in areas that lack water and sewerage utilities – Perfect for an allotment site.
